Summary Report

VM26: Compassionate respectful caring health work force training

This introductory course lays the groundwork for medical students to understand the importance of cultivating a compassionate, respectful, and caring health workforce. It introduces students to the fundamental principles and techniques necessary for fostering empathy, respect, and care in their professional interactions. The course aims to sensitize and orient students regarding the impact of compassionate care on patient outcomes, the strategies for improving interpersonal skills, and preparedness to handle various healthcare scenarios with empathy.

Emphasizing the critical role of compassion and respect in patient satisfaction, this course seeks to minimize societal misunderstandings and enhance the overall quality of healthcare delivery. Dr. Anand Professor and HOD Psychiatry served as the key resource person for this course. He was supported by esteemed faculty member Dr. Waseem Associate professor Department of community medicine, MRIMS. The program was conducted from 18th August 2022 to 20th August 2022 and was attended by 180 medical students who were enrolled in the course.
