Summary Report

VM01: Communication Skills

The Emotional Intelligence course for medical students, conducted by Dr. Anand, Professor and HOD of Psychiatry, as the main resource person, and Dr. Waseem, Associate Professor of Community Medicine, as the supporting faculty, was a notable event that significantly enriched the participants' understanding of emotional intelligence in the medical profession. Over the span of three days, the course offered a blend of theoretical knowledge and practical skills, emphasizing the importance of emotional intelligence in improving patient care, enhancing personal well-being, and fostering professional relationships. Dr. Anand's deep expertise in psychiatry and his engaging lectures on emotional self-awareness, empathy, and stress management were highly impactful. Dr. Waseem contributed valuable insights into the application of emotional intelligence in community health settings, facilitating interactive sessions that helped students develop practical strategies for emotional regulation and interpersonal effectiveness. The course structure included lectures, interactive workshops, and real-life case studies, providing a comprehensive learning experience. The feedback from the students was overwhelmingly positive, with many appreciating the relevance of emotional intelligence in their future careers and personal development. Overall, the course was a great success, equipping medical students with essential skills to navigate the emotional demands of the healthcare profession.

The program was conducted from 13th February 2023 to 15th February 2022 to a total of 105 medical students who were enrolled into the course.
